

Restorative Justice in the Built Environment

Interdisciplinary Dialogue Series

5:30 - 6:30 pm | Hybrid

This Dialogue Series will focus on conversations among community leaders, practitioners, and scholars engaged reflecting on the relationship between restorative justice and built environment disciplines and practices (architecture, urban design, planning, historic preservation, real estate, and geography), especially from the perspectives of African American, Latin American and Latinx, Asian American and Pacific Islander, and Indigenous communities.

- September 8 Restorative Justice's Opportunities and Challenges in Lakeland, College Park
- September 15 Foundations of Restorative Justice in the Built Environment: Telling Stories, Preserving Place
- September 29 Examining Gentrification, Displacement, and Racial Capitalism through a Restorative Justice Framework
- October 6 Property, Housing, and Land: Pillars or Barriers of Restorative Justice

